Economic Development Roundtable

The Commissioners of the Northern Virginia Regional Commission are holding an economic development roundtable.

The Commissioners will hear from the Economic Development Officials from Alexandria, Arlington, Fairfax County, Loudoun County, Manassas and Prince William County.

The Commission is interested in learning about collaboration amongst the localities related to establishing a Northern Virginia brand and to hear directly regarding regional issues that need to be addressed e.g. housing, transportation, etc.

Specifically, the Commission is interested in the concept of a Northern Virginia Regional Economic Development Partnership. Both Richmond and Hampton Roads have public/private partnerships that help market their regions. There are other successful models the country including Denver and the Greater Minneapolis area. Is this something that Northern Virginia should consider? What would the Partnership seek to accomplish? How should such an entity be structured?
